

NICOLAS BARREAU THE WOMAN OF MY DREAMS

A man. A woman. Love at first sight.

Losing and finding one other again in 24 hours.

„Today I met the woman of my dreams. She was sitting in my favourite café, right at the back at a wooden table in front of the mirrored wall and she smiled at me. Unfortunately, she was not alone. I have to admit that the guy sitting beside her, holding her hand, was incredibly good-looking. So I just stared at her, stirred my coffee and prayed for something to happen. And then something did actually happen. The woman of my dreams got up and went to the toilet. When she came back, she winked at me briefly and unexpectedly dropped a little card onto my table. There was a name and a telephone number on it. Nothing else. My heart skipped a beat with joy. And so began the most exciting 24 hours in my life ...”

What begins with a smile soon turns into a turbulent story full of delusion and confusion, delightful complications and unforeseen misunderstandings.

■ A light-hearted story, told with wit and humour about a man who sets out to find the love of his life. For all believers and fans of the city of lovers: Paris.

■ World rights. Sold to Paperback (Piper), Audio Book (Hörbuch Hamburg), Spain (Espasa Libros), Netherlands (Uitgeverij Arena/de Boekerij), Taiwan (Rye Publications), Lithuania (Gimtasis Zodis), Turkey (Pegasus Yayincilik), Hungary (Park Könyvkiado), Russia (Azbooka Atticus).

■ Hardcover: Thiele Verlag (144 pages). More than 200.000 copies sold in Germany. English manuscript available.